

ONLINE LEARNING CASE STUDY

Joseph Linford, Level 3 Art and Design student at Selby College, discusses how he has found online learning...

How have you found online learning so far?

Online learning has proven to be very productive. However, I have been coping well with my work and have been keeping a productive atmosphere around me while working so that I can reach my desired outcomes successfully.

Have you struggled with anything in terms of online learning?

The only thing I have struggled with is not being able to ask my tutors for assistance face-to-face. However, there are systems in place where I can easily ask for and receive help. However, I sometimes struggled with accessing remote learning desktop. However, I have kept in touch with my tutors via email to resolve any issues that I had with accessing content, which enabled me to complete any work that I had.

How helpful have your tutors been?

My tutors have been very helpful to me during this period and have given me all the information I needed to produce work that is up to standard. I have not had any communication issues with my tutors and they have been willing to help me wherever they can.
