Apprenticeships

What is an apprenticeship?

An apprentice is an individual who works and learns at the same time.

As an apprentice, you will be working in a real job where you will be employed by a company, have a contract of employment, get paid a salary and be entitled to all of the statutory benefits such as holiday and sick pay.

What makes an apprenticeship different to other jobs?

What makes an apprenticeship different to another job is that you will also be working towards a recognised apprenticeship standard alongside your job. These standards will be directly relevant to the job that you are doing, whatever role you are working in.

What kind of apprenticeships are there?

There are apprenticeships available at Intermediate, Advanced, Higher and Degree levels. These cover more than 280 industries and 1500 job roles in sectors from Nursing to Graphic Design, Horticulture to Electric Vehicle Engineering, Advertising to Nuclear Decommissioning.

Advertising real jobs, with real employers paying real salaries.

www.findapprenticeship.service.gov.uk/apprenticeshipsearch

Most people think that apprenticeships are only available in a limited number of job roles and only in certain sectors like construction or retail. But this isn't true – there are literally thousands of jobs out there working in all sorts of different exciting organisations.

Which companies offer apprenticeships?

It could be that you end up working with a large company who you might have heard of before, or it could be that you end up working with a smaller business that you may not have heard of before. It's important you do your research and see what you can find out about the company before you start applying.

Some companies that look really small can have amazing opportunities for their apprentices where you might work on some really innovative and creative projects or even travelling overseas. The opportunities will be fantastic and research conducted by the National Apprenticeship Service shows that more than 90% of apprentices stay in employment at the end of their apprenticeship.

Who can do an apprenticeship?

- 16 - 18 year olds
- 18 - 23 year olds
- Adults
- Any academic level
- People with degrees*
- Hard workers
- Those with the right positive attitude

How to register on FAA website
Follow these 3 simple steps...

1. Create an account at www.gov.uk/apply-apprenticeship
2. Check your emails for your activation code
3. Use your activation code to verify your account

Contact your local careers service, training providers and colleges for vacancies which are available. Follow companies on twitter, Facebook etc. many will advertise through social media. Speak to family and friends – they may know of a vacancy at their place of work

When do you need to start applying for an apprenticeship?

Finding an apprenticeship is very different to applying to 6th Form, College or University. The jobs are not all advertised on one date and they do not all start in September. Jobs are advertised throughout the year on the Find an apprenticeship website. You will need to check the website regularly to view the different jobs available.

What if I already found a job?

If you already have an employer in place who has agreed to offer you an apprenticeship, they will need to find a training organisation to support you with the training element of your programme. Your employer will need to call 0808 239 8927 to speak to someone for assistance.

How are apprenticeships delivered?

The way that apprenticeships are delivered will vary depending on the employer that you work for and the kind of job role you have as an apprentice. Some employers prefer to have their apprentices learning away from the workplace for the first few weeks or months of the apprenticeship, others might prefer for you to go to a training provider for 1 day per week and others might prefer for you to learn 100% on-the-job.

What is the difference between on-the-job and off-the-job training?

On-the-job and off-the-job training are phrases that are used a lot with apprenticeships. In summary; the main difference between the two are:

On-the-job – this is where you learn in the workplace. You will be developing your skills by working with colleagues who will show you how to carry out certain tasks. This training could be formal (in a structured session) or informal (where it might be unplanned).

Off-the-job – this is when you learn and develop your skills and knowledge away from your immediate place of work. It might be that you use a computer to access some on-line learning, or you might leave the workplace to attend a training centre where you will learn in a classroom or workshop with other apprentices.

Professional Status and Employability

Entry Points:

- Traineeships - Maths and English qualifications and up to 6 months work experience
- Intermediate (Level 2) - equivalent to 5 GCSE's A*- C
- Advanced (Level 3) - equivalent to 2 A-Levels
- Higher (Level 4, 5, 6) - equivalent to Foundation degree or above

Do you get a job at the end of an apprenticeship?

Emma Apprenticeship
Ambassador

"After my training as a Commercial Apprentice, I was offered a permanent role as Trainee Account Engineer!"

Most apprentices do. A survey conducted by the National Apprenticeship Service showed that the majority of apprentices (90%) either stay employed with the employer that they have completed their apprenticeship with, or will go on to find another job with a different employer. Some apprentices decide at the end of their apprenticeship that they want to go on to further study, such as starting a full time degree at university or college.

What are Traineeships?

Traineeships are an ideal opportunity for young people aged 16-24 (and 25 with an Education Health Care plan) who are motivated to get a job but are in need of the skills and experience which employers are looking for when recruiting employees/apprentices.

They provide a great pathway into the world of work and trainees can access much needed support from providers and employers to set them on their career pathway. This includes:

From the training provider:

- training to prepare you for work, including CV writing and what to expect in the workplace
- support to improve your English, Maths and digital skills if you need it
- sector focused vocational learning to help prepare you for your apprenticeship or job and recognition of your learning

From the employer:

- a high-quality work placement of at least 70 hours
- an interview for an apprenticeship or job if available, or an exit interview with written feedback

Higher & Degree Apprenticeships

A real alternative to the traditional University route, Degree Apprenticeships provide you with an opportunity to earn and learn with no student loan fees to pay back! All apprentices are earning at least the national minimum apprenticeship wage though many employers pay significantly more. Depending on the apprenticeship these can take between 1 to 5 years depending on previously achieved qualifications. Large employers are actively recruiting including NHS, Barclays, Yorkshire Building Society and many more!

IF COLLEGE ISN'T FOR YOU, WE'VE GOT THE PERFECT ALTERNATIVE...

ACADEMIES

If you have ever thought about a career in the Army, we have the academies to help you get there. At our MPCT Military Preparation Academies, learners follow a weekly routine of activities and curriculum. This includes vocational and skills training, physical training, military training days, and assessments. The MPCT curriculum has been designed to develop our student's physical fitness, essential skills, and self-confidence. The academy operates a 'roll on, roll off' joining process with no set deadline by which to apply, allowing new recruits to join on a weekly basis.

Physical Training

You will be expected to participate in physical training every day at MPCT. This makes up for 50% of the course at MPCT, and will support learner preparation and progression into the military. Being fit and healthy is an essential part of military life and civilian employment. Daily physical training helps you to concentrate and focus during lessons, and you'll become more physically and mentally robust.

Education

Regardless of where you learn, you will conduct daily fitness training, weekly military training and citizenship lessons. You will also take part in monthly careers education sessions, supported by military and civilian recruiters and employers.

Military Training

Our courses are designed to give learners the skills needed to start their journey towards a rewarding career in the British Armed Forces or to progress on to further education or training. Problem-solving and leadership skills are essential in the Armed Forces and civilian employment. Learners will take part in a range of problem-solving activities both in the field and in academic lessons. The ability to work effectively as a team member will be essential to your success.

APPRENTICESHIPS

If you're looking to earn while you learn, we can help you get started with an apprenticeship. Apprenticeships offer high-quality training in an on-the-job setting to help you take your first steps in the world of work.

We have opportunities for young people in business administration, customer service and a huge range of other varied disciplines that can prepare you for a successful career.

You will have the opportunity to build new skills, expand your knowledge and gain experience in a real working environment. Not only will you be developing valuable skills that are desirable to employers, but you will be earning a wage for your hard work too! We work with over 4,500 employers nationwide to give young people the opportunities to start their careers with no prior experience.

Our Apprenticeship Team will discuss the opportunities available and find the role that is the right fit for you. You will be fully supported throughout your apprenticeship by one of our specialist tutors and we will be keeping talking to you about your career goals and support you into further education or a full time role on completion of your apprenticeship programme.

We keep our learners at the centre of everything we do, so throughout the course of your learning journey with Learning Curve Group, you will have the support that you need to succeed.
